

HONORARY MEMBERSHIP

Alison Woodman

As recently retired High School Principal Alison Woodman was invited by the incoming PMS Principal in 2011 to assist with the P&C Association project for the PMS Centenary year. This was the publication of Past, Present and Future: Perth Modern School. At this stage, the search for photographs and other memorabilia using a simple card index was frustrating for people not yet familiar with its contents and this spurred on the already identified need to digitise the Photographic Collection held in the Archives. Alison quickly offered her services to help and became one of the regular team working on this project.

Following the production of the P&C book, she was asked by the Principal to oversee the development of the Centenary Panel and the Prefects/School Council panels which can now be viewed in the Andrews Building.

The latest project Alison worked on was the publication electronically of more than 160 biographies of former students, with photographs. These projects have hastened the knowledge and understanding of the wealth of history and the heritage which is available to past, present and future students at Perth Modern School and to the wider community.

Perth Modernian Society has gained a wonderful volunteer who is fascinated by the historical contribution this school has made to the state, nation and international community and become a valued member of the H&M team.
